School Citizen Meeting Draws Residents' Ire

Local Man Held In $60,000 Bail

A 26-year-old Webster street man is being held in $60,000 bail this week in connection with a $10,000 holdup of a Somerville bakery two weeks ago.

According to police, the Arlington resident, Donald McMath of Webster st., did not take part in the actual holdup.

But police charge that McMath, an employee of the bakery, was the "finger man" for the actual bandits. McMath was arrested at his home Tuesday night after a six hour stake out by three Arlington detectives, Sgt. James Doherty and Inspectors William Shea and Henry Bradley.

According to Police Chief Albert E. Ryan, more than $600 of the holdup money was found in McMath's garage by two boys who were playing with a tennis ball in the area.

Ryan said that the ball rolled away from the youngsters and, when they went into the garage to retrieve it, they discovered an envelope containing the money.

A delegation representing Arlington's Fire and Police met with the Finance Committee Monday night to discuss an Article in the coming Town Meeting asking a $500 raise for all firefighters and policemen.

A meeting of the School Citizens Committee at which proposed plans for a new elementary school on Pheasant ave. were discussed resulted in protest from several mothers in the area this week.

Donald O. Johnston, chairman of the School Survey Committee, was the main speaker at the meeting which was held Monday night.

Tuesday morning, residents in the area complained that they had been "threatened with the loss of kindergartens and a two platoon system."

Eight separate phone calls were received by the Advocate.

Johnston said yesterday that no threat was made.

"What I did say," said Johnston, "is that there are presently 270 school-age children living in the area."

"In addition there are 498 pre-school children who will be attending schools within the next five years."

"I said that there will be four alternatives to building a school when this influx of children is absorbed by the Cutter, Peirce and Bishop schools."

They are the building of additions, transporting the children to other schools throughout Arlington, eliminating kindergartens, or two platooning if and when necessary.

"We are not threatening anyone."

Registration of voters is running ahead of last year's total according to an announcement by Ann Mahon, assistant Town Clerk.

RAIN, RAIN, GO AWAY — We haven't had much rain here this winter but even the small amount which fell yesterday took its toll in washouts. Here, a Town grader is shown filling in a washout at Hemlock st. and Yerxa rd.

Russell Heirs Ask Damages For Town's Common Taking

Board To Study Common Lighting

The annual cost of lighting the Russell Common, when converted into a municipal parking lot, will range between $1,830 and $3,000 according to an announcement by Town Manager Edward C. Monahan.

Monahan told the Board of Selectmen Monday night that the costs were estimated after a study by the Wire Inspector, Robert L. Reid, and representatives of the Bruce Campbell Associates and the Boston Edison Company.

The studies indicate that three types of lighting may be used. The installation of floodlights will cost $10,000, the installation of regular street lights with underground conduits, $4,000, and regular street lights with overhead wiring, nothing.

Annual cost for floodlights would be $3,000, for underground, $2,200, and for overhead $1,830.

A more detailed breakdown will be given to the Selectmen Monday night.

Four descendants of the Russell family have filed suit in Middlesex District Court for land damages in connection with the Town's taking of the Russell Common by eminent domain.

The Advocate learned of the not-too-unexpected development yesterday in a telephone interview with Town Counsel Joseph A. Purcell.

When questioned, Purcell said that the petition for land damages was filed "about a week and a half ago."

Purcell said the action was instituted by Walter D. Gregg of Dayton, Ohio, Katherine S. Frost of Brookline, Caroline W. Whitman and Florence W. Boyd, both of Arlington.

No specific figure was mentioned in the petition.

The suit makes no difference in the status of ownership, officials point out. The Town took title to the Common by eminent domain last year. The suit will only settle the matter of possible damages.

Purcell said that the petitioners seldom ask a specific figure in cases of this kind. Usually, the case goes to a jury which determines the cost of the taking, he said.

An article asking an appropriation for paving, parking meters, etc. will be acted upon by the Town Meeting next month.

Purcell said the Town's next action in the case will be the filing of an answer to the complaint. The case will then go before the court.

Miss Grace Parker Dies At 89

MISS GRACE PARKER

The former managing editor of the Arlington Advocate died in the Earl-John nursing home here on Feb. 1.

Miss Grace Parker was the daughter of Charles S. Parker, founder of this paper, and Cornelia Swaney Parker. She was 89 years of age and had been ill for nearly four years.

Prior to her illness, she had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Annabel Parker Wood, president of the Arlington Advocate Inc. at 119 Pleasant st.

After local schooling, Miss Parker was a concert singer as well as reporter for the Advocate. After the death of her brother, Edgar, she became assistant editor of the Advocate, a position she held for nearly ten years before taking over as managing editor in the mid-1920's, upon the retirement of her father. (Continued on Page 16)

Arlington Dye Works Features New Permac

In every business, and this includes drycleaning, there are two separate and distinct classes. Those that cater for the masses by production methods, and those that pay attention to perfecting the treatment of each individual article. The Arlington Dye Works belongs to this second class.

For over 30 years it has kept its customers supplied with the newest, most modern equipment.

Several years ago the Dupont Chemical Company discovered a new and important solvent.

Unfortunately a available machinery was not capable of utilizing this wonderful invention to its fullest capacity.

For years Paul Berberian, co-owner of Arlington Dye, searched for a machine that would do the best possible dry cleaning and also utilize the improved synthetic solution.

Finally the Boehler and Weber Company, of Augsburg, Germany, invented a machine called "Permac." Reports of its success poured in from all over the world.

A friend of Paul's an authority in the dry cleaning field, went to Europe to investigate. After inspecting the machine in some of the finest establishments in Europe he sent back word that this was what Berberian had been waiting for all these years. So successful was it that the Queen of England, "By Royal Appointment," authorized a plant using a "Permac" to do all the dry cleaning of the Royal Family.

One Permac does, automatically, jobs that formerly called for three machines. It cleans, rinses and dries in one operation.

Arrangements were made to import one of these machines and make tests of it here in Arlington.

Arlington Dye Works has dismantled all its old machinery and is ready to serve the people of Arlington with the most modern equipment in the dry cleaning industry.

The Arlington High hockey team turned back Belmont by a 4-2 score and registered its 10th league victory. This victory evened the score, with the only opponent that has a league win over the local team.

With 39 points scored against their adversaries Arlington once more assumed the lead in goals scored.

The next opponent, Rindge, desperate for a win, battled Melrose right down to the wire and with everything to gain and nothing to lose, could be troublesome. This contest will take place on Saturday, February 7th.

While on the subject of hockey it will be of interest to town folks to note that the star goalie of the Arlington High hockey team of 1931, Herman Nickerson, Jr., has just been promoted to the rank of Brigadier General in the Marine Corps.

He is one of the youngest Marine General officers on active duty and holds the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star Medal and the Legion of Merit. He has served his country with distinction in World War II and the Korean conflict.

The annual State indoor schoolboy championship track meet will take place Saturday at the Garden. The local track team will find big league competition here.

Valentine's Day, February 14th, has been chosen as the date for the Annual Sweetheart Formal, sponsored by the Arlington Girls Club. Jeff Carlton's band will provide the music for dancing from eight to eleven-thirty in the beautiful ballroom of the 1200 Beacon Street Hotel. The highlight of the evening will be the choosing of the queen and her court.

The cooks of Arlington High School displayed some of their best talent at the Student Council Food Sale on January 31st, for over $60.00 was raised to benefit the American Field Service Fund.

Choosing the most beautiful cake from the many which were donated was such a difficult job, that two winners were selected. The talented cooks were Diane Salvucci, assisted by Diane Russo, Room 16, a Senior homeroom; and Susan Dahill Room 64, a Sophomore homeroom.

Everyone in the homerooms of the two winning girls will be admitted free to the Student Council Dance on Friday afternoon in the lunchroom. This record hop is to benefit the American Field Service fund.

The Arlington Latin Department held a meeting on Wednesday, February 3rd, at the home of Mrs. Edith Gavin. Each of the teachers participated in the reading of "Plantus" Menaechini. Studying for college board examinations is not over yet for Achievement Tests are scheduled for March 14th. Teachers in the various departments such as Chemistry, Math and English devote extra time in class preparing for these exams.

The choice of the proper college has not been decided for many seniors but representatives from colleges are continuing to visit the Arlington High School to assist pupils with their future plans.

A representative from Boston University will be in the Guidance Office on February 6th to interview those interested in this university. Merrimack College and Norwich University will also send representatives here at a later date to interview students.

The Massachusetts General School of Nursing will hold an Open House on Saturday, February 7th, for those students who are interested in nursing as a career.

Several Senior girls attended an Open House at Salem Teachers' College on February 4th. Those visiting the college were: Linda Hardy, Paula Larkin, Carolyn Marsters, Janice McCoubrey and Paula Pitt.

ALFRED M. DEVITO

ted his nomination papers for election to the office of Town Clerk.

DeVito's educational background includes graduation from St. John's high school, the A.B. degree from Boston College in 1948, attendance at the Graduate School of the University of Massachusetts and the American University in Biarritz, France.

His record includes service with the 80th Infantry Division in France, Luxembourg, Germany, and the Battle of Bastogne in World War II. "I feel certain that I can bring to the office of Town Clerk the administrative order which it requires."

"The broadness of my experience both in education and in business will assure both efficiency and impartiality in conducting the affairs of the office as well as a proper realization of the responsibilities of the office and the necessity to dispatch them for the welfare of all the citizens of the Town of Arlington," he said.

ON BEACON HILL

NAMED—Rep. John P. Buckley (D) of Arlington and Edward L. Kerr (R) of Belmont have been named by House Speaker John F. Thompson to serve on the continuing commission to study health and welfare fund management in the state.

LABOR—The House has given final approval to legislation which would suspend for a year at the discretion of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry the state law which prohibits employment of women and minors after 6 p.m.

TOWNS—Rep. William D. Morton (R) of Wellesley, demoted by the Democratic leadership in the organization of the new House, has won a signal victory in that branch with approval of a measure which would recognize the legality of town meetings at which loud-speaker systems were used to carry debate to overflow audiences.

LYNN—The House has killed a bill which would have allowed the city of Lynn to appoint Rocco Coviello as a junior building custodian in the school department even though he failed to meet requirements because of illness.

COST OF LIVING—The state department of labor and industries reported that the cost of living in Massachusetts is 23.9 per cent higher than 8 years ago and in the last month it went up 0.2 per cent.

BABYSITTERS—The Labor and Industries Committee has approved a study plan offered by Senator William X. Wall (D) of Lawrence and supported by the State Department of Labor which would have a study made of conditions for employment of baby sitters—qualifications and knowledge being a requisite.

EDUCATION—The administration has been called on to alter its 1958 program to establish two year junior colleges on the local level and to expand it to a four-year program giving liberal arts education. The two-year plan "would guarantee mediocre education at exorbitant cost," said Rep. James DeNormandie (R) of Lincoln.

BUDGET—Lack of sufficient notice kept attendance low at the House Ways and Means committee's half billion dollar budget hearing, but counsel for the Farm Bureau Federation was outspoken in charges that the state pays too much for farm produce grown at state institutions.

PENSIONS—Senator Philip A. Graham (R) of Hamilton kept a campaign promise to try to bring judges under the same pension restrictions as were imposed by the voters last fall on all other disabled public employees. He gave warning at a legislative committee hearing that if anyone stood in his way there would be mass meetings from the Cape to the Berkshires to repudiate the Legislature.

EXEMPTIONS—The Committee on Taxation was told that 30 totally disabled veterans in the state who were given $10,000 federal grants for construction of houses that must be especially built to accommodate their disability are taxed $1100 or more on the property. Exemption of the real estate tax was urged for them.

DOGS—With sportsmen from Berkshire in attendance, opinion was divided at a legislative committee hearing on a bill seeking authorization to kill dogs that chase deer in that county.

Donovan Withdraws; Supports John Byrne

John E. Donovan, 37 Ridge st., withdrew from the Selectman's campaign this week in favor of John B. Byrne, Jr.

In making his withdrawal announcement, Donovan said:

"In a campaign for an office as important as Selectman, there should be no conflict between candidates with similar views and policies.

"If such a situation does occur, it is necessary to evaluate and determine the merits and the popularity of the candidates involved. This, I have done.

After much consideration, I have decided to withdraw as a candidate and to support the candidacy of John B. Byrne, Jr.

He has, I feel, the sincerity of purpose, the character, the qualifications, and the experience to represent the people of Arlington on the Board of Selectmen in the manner with which I would have tried to represent them, had I remained a candidate.

I shall work actively in his behalf, for Arlington needs this type of Public Official."

The adult volunteer program, at the Arlington Boys' club, provides many interesting activities for the boys, which would not be available to them if these adults did not give generously of their time and talent, according to Brud Faulkner, director.

This week the director cited: Thurman Chandler, 389 Mass. ave., has devoted his time and ability to teaching the members of the A.B.C. the fundamentals of bait and fly casting for the past 6 years. The class meets on Saturday mornings from 11:30 to 1 p.m.

Joseph Vegliante, 47 Tufts st., instructs the boys in printing 3 evenings each week. At present, Club is printing all of their own material from letter heads to special events tickets, including a very attractive Christmas card.

Mrs. Mildred Simpson devotes her time to the Stamp Club which meets Saturdays from 3 to 5 p.m. The 12 boys in this group eagerly anticipate the exchanges they make and the discussions that take place.

Robert Deegan donates an average of 15 hours a week in coaching younger basketball enthusiasts and officiating intra-mural basketball games. Others who assist Bob in this program are Al Sullivan, Dennis Morel, Jay Donovan, Fred Howard, Jim McMann, Jack Young and Bob Black.

Frank Baiarro teaches weight-lifting at the clubhouse on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. Frank instructs the boys in the correct methods of lifting.

In addition there are many members of the Boys' Club associates, Mom and Dad of club members and other interested adults who provide supervision at special event programs throughout the year.

A wonderful example of the cooperation received regarding volunteers is the coming Father and Son Dinner, Feb. 23.

Forty women and men will assist the committee in the preparation and operation of this annual event. Some will act as waitresses, waiters; others will promote food stuffs and still others will contribute financially.

"Certainly this is a wonderful example of the togetherness that prevails in promoting entertaining Boys' Club programs," Faulkner said.

Has your son joined Arlington's most all inclusive club?

If not bring him to the clubhouse in the near future and personally observe the boys participating in the activities, Faulkner invites.

Baker Urges Voters Read Town Report

"The Annual Town Report should be required reading for every Arlington voter, and it would indeed be enlightening if they were to pay particular attention to the Planning Board Reports over the past 12 years," said Robert Baker, candidate for Selectman, yesterday.

"I did, because two of my opponents claim service on the Planning Board during these years as one of their important qualifications for the other office," continued Baker.

"If you do, you'll find the Arlington Center Plan offered by the Planning Board ten years ago after three years of study and the assistance of a hired professional consultant, but you will never find out why it stagnated while costs mounted.

"You will find surveys, studies and consultants hired to solve the problem of providing off-street parking for the Arlington Heights and East Arlington business sections, but you won't find any solution offered.

"You will find the lethargic record compiled by these two men while serving on this Board serves to disqualify them from any consideration for an office that demands a man of progressive action.

"We must broaden our tax base thereby giving relief to the overburdened home owner. The only way we can do this is to accelerate and initiate programs designed to serve this purpose.

"I believe my years of experience in the real estate business could contribute immeasurably to any such program.

We Want To Be Fair

Hard and fast rules can be unfair. So all we can do is try the best we can!

This is the month of local politics and this year there are more candidates for major offices than possibly in the Town's history.

All want the "best position" and all their releases and testimonials printed in full. And not only once, but every week!

We have a duty to inform the public as to who's who and what's what. We realize this. However, information is dependent upon the quality and directness of words not on unchecked quantity.

Too, we do not expect townspeople to spend a lot of money, particularly for the unpaid positions. The worth of a candidate should not be figured by his bank balance. On the other hand we do not think a totally irresponsible person, owing everybody, should be able to ride along for free when others work hard to pay their obligations.

To be frank, we think it a little bit ridiculous and annoying to your editor when people who have lived here for several long years suddenly find that the local paper is important and does exist. Suddenly, these candidates become big buddies and some even subscribe!

Of one thing we wish to remain quite firm. We are opposed to letters written "to the editor," extolling this or that candidate. Let these ardent supporters put their names where they belong—in a list of sponsors.

In the meantime, we will try to do our best. Good luck to all! And let's try to keep our sense of humor.

Not Easily Replaced

A decision by School Committeeman M. Norcross Stratton not to seek reelection this March will leave a void easily filled. Arlington's "elder statesman of Town affairs" has served continuously on the School Board for 33 years.

He has seen the educational system change from the proverbial Three-R's to its present status of special classes for gifted children, scientific studies in elementary schools, and a constant improvement in all facets of education.

He has been part of a building program which has seen Arlington construct modern new buildings like the Dallin, the Bishop, and the Thompson.

But more important, M. Norcross Stratton has served his Town wisely, well, and unselfishly.

Stars In The Making

Arlington High School's hockey team is having one of its best years, leading the strong GBI league by three full points with only three games to play. But this, though meritorious, comes as no surprise to AHS hockey fans who have become accustomed to great hockey teams.

And, from all indications, Arlington's hockey supremacy will continue for many, many years. We refer, of course, to the newly organized Pee-Wee hockey league.

More than 100 youngsters of varying sizes, shapes, and ages, make up eight teams in this Pee-Wee League.

Thanks to the Park Department, which runs the league, and the Boys Club Associates, the youngsters have jerseys and helmets. . . and they play for real.

The games are played Saturday mornings from 7 to 9 a.m. at the MDC Rink. And from what we've seen so far, there's plenty of stars in the making.

Suburbia Today

As the title suggests, our new colorgrature magazine, SUBURBIA TODAY refers to a way of wonderful living as much as to our type of community. SUBURBIA TODAY comes to the readers of the Arlington Advocate this week and on the first full week of every month thereafter.

It will be the editorial purpose of SUBURBIA TODAY to reflect the good taste of the social gayety, the serious purposes and friendly frivolity of family life in communities, while it defines new high standards and wider horizons for the aspiring young families on the way up.

The editors and staff of SUBURBIA TODAY will themselves be a part of this cultured way of family and community life.

They will range the world to report the very best of new ideas in science and art, the best of hearty. . . and often gourmet. . . foods, and gracious entertaining in our own suburban atmosphere.

SUBURBIA TODAY will cover in word and picture the key achievements and established trends of the contemporary scene. Its features will be intelligent and zestful, with a sense of humor, and always in good taste.

TO THE SKATERS

How long has it been since we've had skating like this year's? Not only is there plenty of ice, but it even feels softer when you fall.

ON PAPER STAFF

Stanley H. Masters was recently elected to the junior business board of the Amherst Student, the college newspaper.

Masters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Masters of Winchester, formerly of Vener rd. here and is a graduate of Arlington high school.

At Amherst he is a member of the Dean's list and the cross country team.

MISSION SOCIETY

The Woman's Mission Society of the First Baptist church will meet Monday Feb. 9 under the leadership of Mrs. Nils Alsen.

Harold Knight will show slides of "Our New State-Alaska." Mrs. Morrell S. Edgerly will talk on Kodiak.

Music will be by Jean Bailey.

Tea will be served preceding the meeting by the Highland Hillside circle.

That Man About Town

By MAT

Well, it's official now. . . the ballot, that is.

With John Donovan dropping out of the Selectmen's fight and John O'Brien out of the Town Clerk's, the rumors can now end as far as the cliché of the week (Who is getting out?) is concerned.

Now will come the heavy campaigning. And, from some of the things we've heard, it may not be the friendliest and cleanest campaign ever waged here.

The Town Clerk's battle is one for the books. In the field of eight, we have candidates who once worked side by side in campaigns for other candidates. Now they're opponents. And just what effect this will have on splitting votes is anybody's guess.

Little has been said about the School Committee race which finds eight candidates after three spots.

Early in the campaign it was conceded by everybody that John Morine, present chairman of the School Committee, was a sure bet, not to win but to top the list.

And when it was announced neither M. Norcross Stratton nor Mrs. Mary Boyd would seek reelection, the field was wide open.

But then, Morine a strong campaigner in his own right, tied up with a team, including Mrs. Velma Brown and James W. Daily. Why the alliance is a good question. It surely hasn't helped Morine with the other candidates or their supporters.

There was some talk that the School Committee team would eventually tie up with the Selectman-Town Clerk combination and thus offer the voters a complete slate.

But when the John Parker-Tim Buckley team was dissolved when Buckley dropped out, it left the School Committee trio standing alone.

We wonder what Morine is secretly thinking now?

Panel On Problems

A panel of representatives of four organizations working in the Greater Boston area in the interests of human rights and better race relations will discuss the problems they meet and their efforts to solve them at a meeting in the chapel wing of the First Baptist Church at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 8.

Sumner Tapper will represent the Anti-Defamation League; B'nai B'rith; Nancy St. John, the American Friends' Service Committee; Luther McNair, the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts; Edward Cooper, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (Boston Chapter, N.A.A.C.P.).

Moderator will be Rev. James Burns of the Department of Christian Social Relations, Mass. Council of Churches.

Mrs. Earl Bolton, chairman of the Christian Social Relations committee, will introduce the panelists.

The public is invited.

Behind the Business Scene

by REYNOLDS KNIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — Small business, the helicopter and American enterprise received a striking endorsement during the past week.

A little more than a decade ago a young former Army Air Corps flyer was trying to turn military experience into a useful civilian business.

This past week Knute Flint, now 38 and president of World Wide Helicopters Ltd., could point to the successful completion of the sale of 212,158 shares of stock for close to one million dollars, representing about one-fourth of the present capitalization of World Wide Helicopters Ltd., an organization he built.

The sale took place nationally through a group of investment firms headed by Blair and Company of New York.

ALASKA BOOM — Commercial helicopter activity in Alaska was one bright spot in 1958's civil helicopter industry picture. Geodetic survey work and the opening of new oil fields in Alaska boosted the number of helicopters operating in the area to more than 50 whereas fewer than a dozen were flying there in 1957, according to H. H. Munsey, general manager of Republic Aviation Corp's helicopter division.

All told there were 115 commercial operators, three certified airlines and a dozen state and municipal agencies active in civil helicopter operations in 1957 Munsey reports. Of these, 90 were charter operators, flying some 500 ships.

A broader use of turbine-powered helicopters, giving increased power and performance to handle heavier loads at less cost, is predicted by the Republic Aviation official.

THINGS TO COME — A dry shampoo foam-type cleaner for use on rugs and all types of fabrics that should not be soaked is being packaged in an aerosol container. . . . A frosted foods company is now packaging hamburger patties in the shape of gingerbread men, birds and ducks to encourage youngsters' appetites. . . . A new watchband that comes in some 30 styles for men has two tiny dials, one of the day of the week and one for the month.

ACCENT ON PRICE — Having provided more good food and better service to more people in 1958 than ever before, the U.S. food industry is faced with an even bigger job in the year ahead.

This is the view of Ralph W. Burger, president and board chairman of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. He said the entire industry — including farmers, processors and distributors — "can be proud of its collective accomplishment during 1958."

SWEET SMELLS — From all indications, 1959's going to be a happy and sweet-smelling year. Thanks to industrial perfume laboratories, everything from artificial flowers to garbage cans is being re-odorized. Even heavy manufacturing, odors are being made more pleasant, to the relief of many employees. The use of sweet-smelling odors in industry is a relatively new idea. In the years since World War II, it's grown into a multimillion-dollar-a-year business.

BRAINSTORMING — Is brainstorming a boom or a bust? A top advertising executive says it's a bust. As you know, in brainstorming a group of executives sit down together and rattle off solutions to a particular problem in rapid-fire succession. Many of the ideas produced may be fantastic or unrealistic. But it's hoped that one or two may contain the germ of a workable proposition.

The ad executive opposing it contends brainstorming encourages escape from responsibility and the shifting of blame. . . . that it's just another attempt to get something for nothing. He concedes, however, that it may get rid of worthless ideas that stand in the way of constructive thinking. Its proponents say that last point makes brainstorming worthwhile, even if you throw out the other points in its favor. And more and more firms are using the practice which, after all, goes back to the time-tested theory that two heads are better than one.

BITS O'BUSINESS — Toy manufacturers' sales for 1958 are estimated at $775.6 million, against $807.9 million in 1957. . . . Life insurance dollars invested in new mortgage loans were an estimated $5.2 billion in 1958, about the same as 1957 and 23 per cent off the peak year of 1956. . . .

Your Prescription

When you take a prescription to your pharmacist to be filled, you are in a sense buying "consumer goods," just as though you were choosing a blouse in a department store or picking up at your grocer's that brand of cream soup your family likes so well. All three transactions take place across a counter, and involve an exchange of money for something you are going to use.

Yet how different from the others is the emotional climate in which you purchase a prescription.

Instead of happy anticipation at a new outfit or a family treat, you are worried and upset. You want the blouse or the soup. But the prescription is a necessity, because your doctor has said so, and on your purchase depends your own health or the well-being of someone very dear to you.

If you think a moment about these situations, and compare them calmly, you'll understand the psychological reason why so many people tend to grumble from time to time about "the high price of drugs."

Prescriptions are items we don't want, really. But we know we have to have them.

Yet, being human, we resist the need to buy them.

But are prescription prices really out of line?

In fairness, let's look at the facts.

Between 1939 and 1954, for example, disposable income climbed 262 percent. But our personal expenditures for drug products increased only 167 per cent a more modest rise than for some other items like food and clothing.

The average price of a prescription is $2.90, and our total annual outlay per American for prescription items is only about $11. Is this too stiff a bill for drugs that will cure pneumonia, curb tuberculosis, and enable epileptics and diabetics to lead useful lives?

In one recent year, we spent $54 apiece for alcoholic beverages, $32 for tobacco, and $18 for the repair, greasing, washing, parking, rental and storage of automobiles.

We should remember, too, that part of the purchase price of every prescription — one analyst says it is twenty cents out of every dollar of manufacturing profit before taxes — is immediately plowed back into research.

Protestants Seek $11,250,000

More than $11,250,000 is being asked by Protestant churches in America for 1959 programs of assistance to homeless, hungry and destitute people abroad.

Announcement of this goal for the 1959 United Appeal for Overseas Relief and Reconstruction — an $850,000 increase over 1958 — was made today by Harper Sibley, chairman of Church World Service.

Highlight of the 1959 United Appeal will be the "One Great Hour of Sharing" observances on Sunday, March 8, when designated offerings for overseas aid will be made at special simultaneous services in thousands of American churches.

The 1959 One Great Hour of Sharing — United Appeal is the eleventh annual joint financial effort of major American denominations working concertedly in world-wide ministry to need.

Funds realized through the

Rt. 128 Boon To Local Taxes

A report by a team of researchers at M.I.T. on Route 128 discloses some amazing facts.

So many industries have moved to 128 that its plants will employ 30,000 workers a year hence. Despite the lack of public transportation, new industry moves to 128 almost every week.

And 96 percent of all the firms that relocated came from within 4 and one half miles of the center of Boston, thereby taking a great load off the commuter lines into the North and South Stations as well as the MTA.

Although virtually 100 percent of Route 128 workers travel by private automobile, the only traffic problems are the result of a few bottlenecks. Route 128 now handles about 50,000 cars a day.

Tax benefits to cities and towns along 128 are tremendous. Needham can serve as a typical example. Its industrial center occupies only 1.2 percent of the town area, but it provides 9.6 percent of total property taxes.

Since 1951, industrial site land values have jumped from $1,000 an acre to $8,000 and total investment now averages $77,000 an acre. Walham's share of Route 128 industries' totals $22 million for tax purposes.

Living With Your Teeth

Dental disease is as old as man. Tooth decay is still the most widespread disease in this country, affecting 97 percent of Americans at some time during their lives. But modern scientific research may soon change this picture.

At the present time, research projects in dentistry are being conducted in nearly every dental school in the country as well as in other institutions.

Emphasis is on prevention. As a result of research, water fluoridation is helping to prevent decay in the teeth of millions of American children.

It is possible that within the next few years researchers will discover remineralizing agents that can be used to strengthen weakened enamel before cavities can start. They hope to find an effective enzyme to prevent tooth decay.

New filling materials will give longer-lasting protection to repaired teeth. For young adults, new approaches to checking diseases of the gums will make it possible to cut down sharply the high toll of teeth lost from such condition as pyorrhea and gingivitis.

Physically handicapped children are also receiving more attention.

For example, not many years ago little or nothing could be done for youngsters born with cleft lips and cleft palates. The dentist is an important member of a health team that now accomplishes dramatic results in treatment of these defects. . . .

Nearly 10,000 babies are born each year with cleft lip and cleft palate, a higher total of children are crippled with this disorder than with polio or cerebral palsy, and their rehabilitation is a noteworthy accomplishment.

Dentists know how to prevent most decay and other dental diseases that caused tooth loss, but the dentist can't do it alone; his patients must co-operate.

First, there is the matter of diet. The foods one should eat for general health are adequate for dental health too. But of equal importance are the foods one should not eat.

These foods are the ones containing sugar. Americans consume 10 times as much sugar per person as their great grandfathers did, at least three times as much as they need for energy requirements. This sugar is used as food by acid-producing bacteria in the mouth. The acid attacks the enamel of the teeth, eventually eating a small hole in it, the beginning of decay.

Second, brushing after each meal is most important. This removes food particles that would otherwise lodge in crevices in and between the teeth, providing food for bacteria that can cause tooth decay and gum disease. When a toothbrush isn't handy, it's a good idea to rinse one's mouth thoroughly with water.

Today's experiments become tomorrow's realities. A child born this year may eventually have a life expectancy of 100 years—and so will his teeth.

Dog Tales

By Mearns Diehl

Attempts to classify dogs have gone on for centuries, ever since men were interested and educated enough to write about them.

One early English classification included "small ladies' puppies that bear away the fleas," but I'm not quite sure which was supposed to bear away whose fleas.

Another early English variety was the turnspit, whose kitchen task it was to walk around a wheel which turned the roast on the fire. Would you trust your dog to mind the roast today?

Most of the classifications attempted to separate dogs by purposes or appearance, or a combination of these, but no system seems completely perfect because of the large number of varieties.

The system most widely used in the United States is that of the American Kennel Club, the nation's largest registrar of purebred dogs. It attempts to separate our canine friends into six divisions:

Sporting, represented by the various pointers, retrievers, setters and spaniels, plus the Weimaraner.

Hounds, represented by the breeds which track game, flush it out or pursue it.

Working dogs, composed of those developed for special tasks, such as sheep dogs or sled-pulling Eskimoes.

Terriers, courageous small dogs originally bred to attack or follow small animals into burrows or dens.

Toys, very small dogs, some of them miniature editions of the bigger breeds, such as Toy Poodles and Italian Greyhounds.

Non-sporting, a miscellany otherwise unclassified.

Nineteenth century British classifications attempted oversimplification by creating only two divisions, sporting and non-sporting.

But after a hundred years or so of this, the two main classes were subdivided so that for all practical purposes five divisions were created.

They are, under sporting: hounds, gundogs and terriers; and under non-sporting: working and toys.

The Germans, well known in practically everything they undertake for their organizing ability, have evolved a very definitive classification system.

Their five groupings are gundogs, hounds, working, utility and watch dogs, and house and miniature dog breeds.

It is self-evident from these differing systems that some breeds are in different groups in these major dog-loving countries.

For instance, the Fox Terrier is classified by the Germans as a gundog, and by the Americans and British as a terrier; the Pug is classified in Germany under house and miniature dogs, by the United States and Great Britain under toys.

Remember The Birds

Dr. Eric H. Hansen, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has appealed to bird-lovers everywhere to help their feathered friends survive the extreme cold weather by putting out food for them.

During the bitter cold days, particularly when the ground is covered with snow and ice, it is highly desirable that grain, bread crumbs, corn meal, etc., be spread where birds can reach it easily, thus eliminating the possibility of suffering which might result through lack of their natural diet.

According to Dr. Hansen, the most satisfactory method of putting out food for them is to place it on a large board with a molding around the edge to prevent it from being scattered or lost.

People should remember the birds, so that when spring arrives, these attractive creatures will be with us once again with their beauty and song.

New Golf Course Designed At Colonial

An entirely new 18-hole golf course that promises to be one of the most picturesque in this part of the country currently is under construction at Colonial Country Club on Route 128 in Lynnfield.

The first new nine holes will be ready by the start of the golf season in early spring. The remaining nine are scheduled to be ready for play before the season progresses very far.

The new course will be a challenging 6,965-yard, par 71 layout with none of the original nine holes remaining as they were last year or all of the previous years of the course's existence.

The new course was laid out by George W. Page, Colonial's owner director, and Billy Mitchell, the famous golf course architect, with a view toward giving the golfing buff the best layout brains and brawn could conceive.

The greens will be of Kernwood Velvet Bent Grass from the famous Mitchell farm of Kearsage, New Hampshire.

The fairways will be equipped with runken sprinklers so the golfer will not be hampered by carelessly laid rubber hoses and pipes. The water on the fairways will be turned on at night after the last of the golfers has holed out.

There'll be grass tees throughout with the driving areas set off in three plateaus. The front tees for women.

LIVING with your HEART

A COMMUNITY SERVICE OF THE
MASSACHUSETTS HEART ASSOCIATION

("Living With Your Heart" is written and distributed weekly as a community service by the Mass. Heart Assoc.)

Just how serious is the problem of heart and circulatory disease in Massachusetts?

It is well known that these ills account for more deaths in our state—and our city—than all other causes combined. But let us think of it in this light:

In the last recorded year heart and circulatory disease accounted for enough deaths to represent more than the entire population of Milton, or of North Adams, or Peabody, or Weymouth, or Woburn or Westfield. The toll exceeded 23,000 persons.

Aside from those who paid the ultimate price, American Heart Association figures show that nearly 10 million Americans now living have some form of heart or circulatory disease. Massachusetts' share, conservatively estimated, would be 300,000—twice the population of Berkshire county, six times the population of Franklin county, almost the whole population of Bristol or Norfolk county—and one-third more than the entire population of the city of Worcester.

Obviously, there is no room for complacency in the face of a problem reaching into every neighborhood in Massachusetts. Fortunately, we have the weapons at hand to make an intensive effort against it.

There is much ground for hope in the realization that the past decade has seen more progress against heart and circulatory disease than in all the mankind's previous medical history.

That weapon is the Heart Fund, which has saved many lives in Massachusetts alone through inspired programs of research, education and community service made possible by our contributions.

Despite the fact that we still do not know the basic causes of hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure, the two most lethal forms of cardiovascular disease, the distinguished cardiologist Paul Dudley White is confident that "with adequate support to heart research" there will be a noticeable decline in heart diseases among the young and middle-aged in the next ten years.

Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, president of the Lasker Foundation and a major force against heart and other diseases, pointed recently in an interview to the vast sums spent on less vital causes and declared, bluntly: "We are dying of dumbness."

This is perhaps the saddest of all afflictions. One way to avoid it is to fight heart disease. And the way to fight heart disease is to help your Heart Fund with as generous gifts of work and funds as you can give.

The reward may be life itself.

On The Bench With

Milt Schmidt Coach, Boston Bruins

How would you coach a team to play against the Russians?

That is a question I've been asked ever so many times since the Russian hockey team came to this country for its two weeks' tour.

On the basis of having seen the Russians in action only twice, once in a practice and the other time against Harvard at the Garden the past week end, I'm not too much of an expert on their style.

I do know they are sticklers for positional hockey. So under the International rules they play—that is, body checking only in the defensive half of the ice—I'd have my team play man to man.

My forwards would check their respective forwards closely. Keep them from getting started and capitalize on the mistakes you force them to make.

Of course if it were pro rules, I'd say to bump the heck out of them just as we try to do with the opposing stars in the National Hockey League. I don't think they would have such precision passing under those circumstances.

Talked this over with Lynn Patrick, the Bruins general manager. He has a different theory on how to stop them. After all, he watched them in the world's amateur championships in Oslo, Norway last February and got a pretty good idea of their style.

He says, "Put a man on the center to do nothing but tail him. The whole Russian offense stems from the center. If you stop him you stop the Russians."

It would be interesting to see how they would stack up against a pro team even under the rules they play.

Mind you, I'm not belittling the Russians, because they play remarkably well. They are in top condition but despite what I've heard, I don't think their condition is any better than our pro hockey teams.

Let them play a pro team under pro rules and I'll wager they won't stand up as well.

Let them play a pro team under their own rules—skating full tilt with little bodychecking or rough stuff—and I'll still stick with our pros on condition.

For the short time the Russians have been playing hockey they have made tremendous strides. That's because they have dedicated themselves to the game.

Their passing, I'll admit, is much better in many instances than you see in lots of our pro games. It is deliberate and soft. In the one game I saw them in action it was a real treat to see them make their plays.

But I was told that I didn't see them at their best against Harvard. Lynn Patrick claims they play only as well as they have to. Last Winter in Oslo while the Canadian champions were running up big scores, the Russians were content to win merely by a safe margin.

When the chips were down, however, as against the Canadian representative, the Whitby Dunlops, Patrick says they played very well.

The Russians copied many things from us in hockey. I might do vice versa.

They have a drill to brush up on their passing. They have six men around in a circle with one man in the middle. The six men in the circle pass the puck to each other with the man in the middle trying to break it up.

If he succeeds, then the man who failed to make the pass goes into the center. It's like one of our children's games, but it sure as heck helps them perfect those soft flip passes.

Muriel Wennberg Heads Heart Drive

Miss Muriel Wennberg, 124 High Haith Road has accepted the chairmanship of the Plastic Hearts committee for the 1959 Heart Fund drive in Arlington, Charles H. Cremens, local general chairman of the February campaign announced today.

As a worthy advisor of the Arlington Assembly No. 36, Order of Rainbow for Girls, Miss Wennberg will be assisted by the Rainbow Girls in the distribution of Plastic Heart containers, posters and streamers.

The Heart Fund in this state is sponsored by the Massachusetts Heart Association, keystone of whose program is research to find solutions to the problem of heart diseases with this lifetime.

In addition to research, the Heart Association provides for professional and public education and for community heart programs.

Climax of the four-week fund raising appeal to underwrite the solution to the Nation's No. 1 health problem will be Heart Sunday, to be held in Massachusetts on Feb. 15, when volunteers will conduct a door-to-door collection throughout the state.

Baptists Hear Militant Talk

"The Christian movement is a kind of space rocket to save the world," said Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, D.C., and recent president of the American Baptist convention, at the annual meeting of the Boston Baptist City Mission Society held at the First Baptist Church of Arlington on Jan. 20.

"Seven Baptist conventions, representing 18 million Baptists of the United States and Canada will work together for five years to win America for Christ through the Baptist Jubilee Advance," the speaker said.

Dr. Cranford, who spoke for the American Baptist Convention in Moscow (Russia's only Baptist church in April 1958) said "People are expecting a new day. That is true in Russia."

"I saw the University of Moscow, the tallest building in the Soviet Union, a 32 story structure. It has 30,000 rooms and 1,000 laboratories, and 22,000 students, every one of whom is studying science."

"In America there are 50,000 young people from American Baptist homes attending colleges and universities this year. 230,000 in Southern Baptist colleges."

"We've got to have character to control the things men have received. Our Christian higher education challenge will train more laborers for this work. It will cost 7 and one half million dollars."

Let's get into the orbit where people see it's revolving around the will of God for our day."

More than 450 delegates from missionary organizations throughout the state attended the meeting.

D.A.R. Hears Talk On History, Future

Luke E. McCarthy, local director of Adult Education, was the guest speaker at the meeting of Menotomy Chapter, D.A.R., in Library hall last week.

The speaker traced the development of American democracy from John Locke, Sydney, Bellarmine and others to Jefferson, Madison, and other Founding Fathers of the Republic, the problems of states' rights in relation to the growing menace of centralized government; the socialistic tendencies in America since the great depression of the thirties; and trends of the future.

The speaker commended the D.A.R. for their "traditional courage and front-line defense" of the Constitution, recommending a much wider publication of the "militant resolutions" of the recent continental Congress of the D.A.R.

Shattuck Co. Over 100 Years Old

The R. W. Shattuck and Co., Inc., hardware store has been an Arlington business since 1857. The year 1921 saw John L. Wheatley join the staff at R. W. Shattuck. Seven years later Mr. Wheatley and R. S. Stevens bought the business and incorporated it. Recently Mr. Stevens withdrew from the company and John Wheatley became the sole owner. J. L. Wheatley, Jr., has joined his father in the hardware store. A graduate of Arlington high school and Middlebury College, John Jr. recently completed his military service. Mr. and Mrs. Wheatley and John L. III now make their home in Arlington. Shattuck's has the reputation of being one of the best stocked hardware stores north of Boston. A complete stock of bolts, garden supplies, screws, nails, light and heavy hardware, and a complete houseware line are specialties of the store and enable Shattuck's to accommodate the many needs of its customers.

Many Arlington residents have expressed their thanks and gratitude to Shattuck's for their aid in answering the never ending questions that confront so many people in the repair and maintenance of their homes. In turn, Mr. Wheatley and his staff thank the people of Arlington for giving Shattuck's the opportunity to serve them. They hope they shall be able to continue to do so in the future. Shattuck's is located at 444-446 Massachusetts ave., Arlington Center.

Mazzocca Truly 'The Music Man'

The house at 998 Massachusetts ave., is both a home and a business for Augustus Mazzocca.

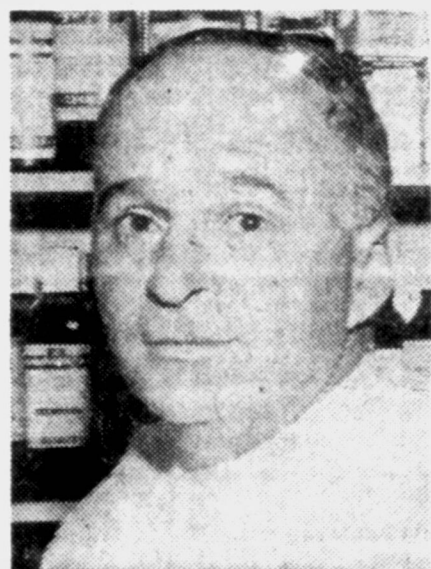

In addition to holding classes for every conceivable type of instrument at his home, Mazzocca also sells all types of new and used wind and string instruments, accordions, music accessories and sheet music.

He has taught music in the Boston School System, the State Teachers Colleges, and is in charge of all instrumental music in Arlington schools.

How many instruments does he play? "I play them all," says Mazzocca. It might be added that he plays them all well.

Fine Reputation At Rawson Drug

Rawson's Pharmacy, at the corner of Broadway and Rawson rd., has known but one owner in its entire existence. Hugo A. Greco graduated from the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in 1928. For five years he worked in various drug stores. In 1933 he acquired a variety store and converted it into the present Rawson Pharmacy. Greco and his wife immediately moved to Arlington and have been residents here ever since. Mr. and Mrs. Greco and their two daughters now live at 31 Richfield road.

Trask Esso Shows Business Rise

Trask Esso Station at 5 Massachusetts ave. is a combination of the new and the old. In terms of years in business, Trask Esso is one of the oldest stations in Arlington. But in terms of its physical plant it is also one of the newest stations in town.

Last spring the 25 year-old station underwent a complete remodeling. For weeks heavy wrecking equipment razed the station, forcing the Trasks into a make-shift shack for shelter until the project was finished. The storage tanks were also remodeled. On August 1, the new station was opened to the public.

Conditions during the construction period were as adverse as they could possibly have been. William Trask says proudly, "Our customers stuck with us 100 per cent during this period." This show of confidence has developed from over 25 years of service by the Trask family.

William Trask Sr. is handling the business end of the family operation and his son, William Jr., the operating end. The younger Trask is a life time veteran of the service station business. Except for four years in the armed forces, he has never worked anywhere else.

That a business' best friends are its regular customers was shown by the Trask Esso Station.

Thank you for your beautiful letter! Yes, this column is bound together by very strong ties. It truly is a column of which any editor would be proud!

I am happy that you are doing well and that you have started to write the story of Polly! I am greatly interested in this and hope someday you'll let me read it! The best of luck to you!

My New Year has started off in the writing field also. Perhaps our paths may cross out there somewhere!

M.L.M.
"It is not at all to do everything for those you love, and not give them a share in the doing. It's not kind. It's making too much of yourself, my child."

I found this in reading the other day; and perhaps this is good advice for me to follow in the matter I wrote to you about not long ago. It is hard sometimes to see unless one reverses the situation and sees with the other persons' eyes for awhile.

"We find in life exactly what we put into it." EMERSON

Kenarden

Take your daily task with a smile
And smile in doing all the while.

A happy heart is a treasure.
For things are done with thorough measure.

The unhappy heart leaves things half done,
Or so poorly; not to be counted as won.

A day spent with a frown is lost.
And fretting now, won't defer the cost.

But a cheerful heart tomorrow...
Can eliminate such useless sorrow.

A task, can seem like fun...
Or... in its reality... well done!

FOOTSAVING EDUCATION

Orent By Herb Mason Owner of Mason's Shoes Arlington center

When are children's shoes high priced?

A pair of baby shoes so hard and stiff that they rub young toes and heels... that allow no room for growth and development are certainly high priced. A shoe that has been worn and shaped by another child... that has been outgrown, yet continues to be worn, can cost most of all.

A shoe that has been improperly fitted, or sold without being fitted to the foot is a costly shoe.

The cost of baby's shoes can be measured in discomfort and doctor's bills over a period of many years.

There are many things that contribute to the high price of a pair of shoes. But the shoe that builds priceless customer good will, is the one that is most consistently fitted right by able personnel trained to fit rather than sell.

The customer who finds a store with this credo should appreciate a well planned business as that firm should in turn appreciate their patronage.

BRANDEIS SENIORS MARRY

MRS. FRANK D. HAURWITZ
(Judith Bograd)

The B.M.H. Synagogue of Denver, Colorado was the scene of a candlelight wedding ceremony recently when Judith Bograd became the bride of Frank David Haurwitz son of Professor Bernhard Haurwitz of New York City and Mrs. Eva Disharoon of Arlington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white lace over satin and carried a spray of white roses on her white Bible.

The maid of honor, the two bridesmaids and the flower girl wore coral satin ballroom length dresses.

Charles Ashley of Arlington, was best man.

Ushers were Dr. Nathan Bograd, Dr. Walter Schick, Max Bograd and the bride's brother, Gerald Bograd.

After the ceremony a buffet supper reception and dance was held in the Synagogue ballroom, which was decorated with white chrysanthemums and carnations.

The couple have returned to Waltham, where they are seniors at Brandeis University. Upon graduation they plan to continue their studies at a western university.

[Correspondence] OUT OF RACE

To the Editor:
I would like to use the medium of this newspaper to thank all those fine people who signed my nomination papers for the office of selectman.

However, I would like to declare that I am resigning from the race for selectman in favor of John O. Parker, who is far more qualified for the office than myself.
In making this decision I consulted with several fellow members of ACT (Arlington-Towns for Civic Thinking) who were of similar mind, and decided that my resignation in favor of John O. Parker was a wise move.

John O. Parker

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The healing power of spiritual enlightenment will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Paul's healing of the cripple at Lystra, as related in the Book of Acts (Ch. 14), will be included in the Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit."

A correlative passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares (324:19): "Paul was not at first a disciple of Jesus but a persecutor of Jesus' followers. When the truth first appeared to him in Science, Paul was made blind, and his blindness was felt; but spiritual light soon enabled him to follow the example and teachings of Jesus, healing the sick and preaching Christianity throughout Asia Minor, Greece, and even in Imperial Rome."

The Golden Text is from
I John (4:6,13): "We are of God: . . . Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit."
